Introduction

When the Milwaukee Police Department announced that violent crime in the City of Milwaukee dropped 10% in 2008, Mayor Tom Barrett noted, “The cooperation among police officers, the clergy, community agencies and all members of the community has led to some very gratifying results” (Feb 2009 Press Release). This directory is intended to encourage communication, coordination, and collaboration among people working to prevent or reduce violence.

The Planning Council for Health and Human Services, Inc., compiled an anti-violence directory in 2005 at the request of Mayor Barrett. The directory was updated in 2006 and has been updated and expanded in 2009 with support from the Greater Milwaukee Foundation’s Fitch Research Fund.

For this directory, information was collected regarding anti-violence efforts in Milwaukee County. Representatives of those efforts were contacted and asked to verify and update their information; they were also asked to list additional efforts that had not already been identified. Information in the directory is self-reported. Representatives of anti-violence efforts who did not respond to requests to confirm or update descriptive and contact information were not included in this version of the directory.

While there are many programs that may ultimately prevent violence, this directory is specific to programs that met the following criteria:

- Geographic focus in Milwaukee County.
- Activities specifically focused on violence prevention, reduction, awareness, or policy development.

Though an attempt was made to capture all anti-violence efforts in the community that met the criteria, if you know of any anti-violence efforts that should be included in the next update of this directory, or if information in the directory has changed or is incorrect, please contact Lonna Kruse at antiviolence@planningcouncil.org or (414) 224-0404, extension 33. With your help, Milwaukee County will have an up-to-date, comprehensive, and accessible anti-violence directory that will be readily available to the community and will increase public awareness of those who are working to prevent or reduce violence in Milwaukee County.

The directory is organized in three sections. Section 1 lists the anti-violence efforts in alphabetical order; the term “efforts” is used to describe initiatives, programs, and services that are working toward preventing and reducing violence in Milwaukee County. Section 2 provides lists of efforts under various categories. Section 3 contains a sample of twelve evidence-based best practices in violence prevention.

About Section 1: The Directory

Each effort is briefly described and contact and other information is listed, to the extent it was provided by the respondents. Following the information is a box titled “Descriptive Categories”. (Note: For three of the efforts, no descriptive categories were checked by the representatives.) Each of the words listed links to Section 2, enabling the reader to see other efforts that are in that same category. If using a printed version of the directory, simply go to Section 2, where the categories are listed in alphabetical order.

About Section 2: Categories

Efforts are listed under the categories that describe them; thus, an effort may appear under a number of categories. The categories are listed alphabetically. Each effort is accompanied by its order number and page number in Section 1. Each effort is also linked to its description in Section 1.

About Section 3: Best Practices

Twelve evidence-based practices are included. "Evidence-based" stands in contrast to approaches that are based on tradition, convention, belief, or anecdotal evidence. These practices are taken from the National Registry of Evidence-Based Programs and Practices (NREPP), which is operated by the federal Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA). Each program's title is linked to the SAMHSA web page, which contains a full description and contact information. These are included as a resource for those who are working to prevent or reduce violence.

Section 3: Best Practices

Twelve Evidence-Based Practices in Violence Prevention

The National Registry of Evidence-based Programs and Practices (NREPP) is an online registry of mental health and substance abuse interventions that have been reviewed and rated by independent reviewers. It is a service of the federal Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA).

The purpose of this registry is to assist the public in identifying approaches to preventing and treating mental and/or substance use disorders that have been evaluated and that can be readily disseminated to the field. The following programs appear in the Registry under the heading “violence prevention.” Each program’s title is linked to the SAMHSA web page, which contains a full description and contact information.

These are included as a resource for individuals or groups who are working to prevent or reduce violence.

Aggressors, Victims, and Bystanders: Thinking and Acting To Prevent Violence	April 09
Abstract: Aggressors, Victims, and Bystanders: Thinking and Acting To Prevent Violence (AVB) is a curriculum designed to prevent violence and inappropriate aggression among middle school youth, particularly those living in environments with high rates of exposure to violence. Based on research demonstrating the role of cognitive patterns in mediating aggressive behavior, AVB addresses the differing roles that individuals typically play in promoting or preventing violence. The core objectives of AVB are to encourage young people to examine their roles as aggressors, victims, and bystanders; develop and practice problem-solving skills; rethink beliefs that support the use of aggression; and generate new ways of thinking about and responding to conflict in each of these roles. A central feature of the curriculum is its four-step Think-First Model of Conflict Resolution. This model helps students pause and reflect when confronted with a conflict so they can define the situation in ways that lead to effective, positive solutions. The curriculum is presented in 12 45-minute classroom sessions conducted 1 to 3 times per week over 4 to 12 weeks. AVB can be taught by health educators, language arts teachers, police officers, school resource/safety officers, or physical education instructors.
All Stars	November 07
Abstract: All Stars is a multiyear school-based program for middle school students (11 to 14 years old) designed to prevent and delay the onset of high-risk behaviors such as drug use, violence, and premature sexual activity. The program focuses on five topics important to preventing high-risk behaviors: (1) developing positive ideals that do not fit with high-risk behavior; (2) creating a belief in conventional norms; (3) building strong personal commitments; (4) bonding with school, prosocial institutions, and family; and (5) increasing positive parental attentiveness. The All Stars curriculum includes highly interactive group activities, games and art projects, small group discussions, one-on-one sessions, a parent component, and a celebration ceremony. The All Stars Core program consists of 13 45-minute class sessions delivered on a weekly basis by teachers, prevention specialists, or social workers. The All Stars Booster program is designed to be delivered 1 year after the core program and includes nine 45-minute sessions reinforcing lessons learned in the previous year. Multiple program packages are available to support implementation by either regular teachers or prevention specialists.

CASASTART	September 07
Abstract: CASASTART (Striving Together to Achieve Rewarding Tomorrows, formerly known as Children at Risk), is a community-based, school-centered substance abuse and violence prevention program developed by the National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University (CASA). CASASTART targets youths between 8 and 13 years old who have a minimum of four identified risk factors. Youth participants may remain in the program up to 2 years. Specific program objectives of CASASTART include reducing drug and alcohol use, reducing involvement in drug trafficking, decreasing associations with delinquent peers, improving school performance, and reducing violent offenses. CASASTART's intervention model is informed by the research literature on social learning theory, social strain theory, social control theory, and positive youth development. Its eight fundamental components are community-enhanced policing, intensive case management, juvenile justice intervention, family services, after-school and summer activities, education services, mentoring, and the use of incentives to encourage youth development activities. Each site brings together key stakeholders in schools, law enforcement agencies, and social services and health agencies to develop tailored approaches to the delivery of the core service components consistent with local culture and practice. At all sites, CASASTART is staffed by case managers and requires the cooperation of area police departments and local social service and juvenile crime agencies.
Incredible Years	October 07
Abstract: Incredible Years is a set of comprehensive, multifaceted, and developmentally based curricula targeting 2- to 12-year-old children and their parents and teachers. The parent, child, and teacher training interventions that compose Incredible Years are guided by developmental theory on the role of multiple interacting risk and protective factors in the development of conduct problems. The three program components are designed to work jointly to promote emotional and social competence and to prevent, reduce, and treat behavioral and emotional problems in young children. The parent training intervention focuses on strengthening parenting competencies and fostering parents' involvement in children's school experiences to promote children's academic and social skills and reduce delinquent behaviors. The Dinosaur child training curriculum aims to strengthen children's social and emotional competencies, such as understanding and communicating feelings, using effective problem-solving strategies, managing anger, practicing friendship and conventional skills, and behaving appropriately in the classroom. The teacher training intervention focuses on strengthening teachers' classroom management strategies, promoting children's prosocial behavior and school readiness, and reducing children's classroom aggression and noncooperation with peers and teachers. The intervention also helps teachers work with parents to support their school involvement and promote consistency between home and school. In all three training interventions, trained facilitators use videotaped scenes to structure the content and stimulate group discussions and problem solving.

Multisystemic Therapy (MST) for Juvenile Offenders	April 07
Abstract: Multisystemic Therapy (MST) for juvenile offenders addresses the multidimensional nature of behavior problems in troubled youth. Treatment focuses on those factors in each youth's social network that are contributing to his or her antisocial behavior. The primary goals of MST programs are to decrease rates of antisocial behavior and other clinical problems, improve functioning (e.g., family relations, school performance), and achieve these outcomes at a cost savings by reducing the use of out-of-home placements such as incarceration, residential treatment, and hospitalization. The ultimate goal of MST is to empower families to build a healthier environment through the mobilization of existing child, family, and community resources. MST is delivered in the natural environment (in the home, school, or community). The typical duration of home-based MST services is approximately 4 months, with multiple therapist-family contacts occurring weekly. MST addresses risk factors in an individualized, comprehensive, and integrated fashion, allowing families to enhance protective factors. Specific treatment techniques used to facilitate these gains are based on empirically supported therapies, including behavioral, cognitive behavioral, and pragmatic family therapies.
Peaceful Alternatives to Tough Situations (PATTS)	December 08
Abstract: Peaceful Alternatives to Tough Situations (PATTS) is a school-based aggression management program designed to help students increase positive conflict resolution skills, increase the ability to forgive transgressions, and reduce aggressive behavior. PATTS features three separate curricula (for kindergarten through grade 2, grades 3 through 5, and middle and high school), each of which is delivered in nine weekly, 1-hour sessions. The program teaches cognitive skills, peer refusal skills, appropriate conflict resolution skills, identification and verbalization of emotions, recognition of anger cues, calming techniques, and forgiveness. Sessions are highly interactive and use group discussion, role-playing, games, and skills review. In addition, parents and teachers receive training informing them about the skills taught to students and encouraging them to support the use of the skills at home and in the classroom. PATTS is designed to be delivered by teachers, guidance counselors, and graduate or undergraduate mental health counselors.
Positive Action	August 07
Abstract: Positive Action is an integrated and comprehensive program that is designed to improve academic achievement; school attendance; and problem behaviors such as substance use, violence, suspensions, disruptive behaviors, dropping out, and sexual behavior. It is also designed to improve parent-child bonding, family cohesion, and family conflict. Positive Action has materials for schools, homes, and community agencies. All materials are based on the same unifying broad concept (one feels good about oneself when taking positive actions) with six explanatory subconcepts (positive actions for the physical, intellectual, social, and emotional areas) that elaborate on the overall theme. The program components include grade-specific curriculum kits for kindergarten through 12th grade, drug education kits, a conflict resolution kit, sitewide climate development kits for elementary and secondary school levels, a counselor's kit, a family kit, and a community kit. All the components and their parts can be used separately or in any combination and are designed to reinforce and support one another.

Responding in Peaceful and Positive Ways (RiPP)	April 07
Abstract: Responding in Peaceful and Positive Ways (RiPP) is a school-based violence prevention program for middle school students. RiPP is designed to be implemented along with a peer mediation program. Students practice using a social-cognitive problem-solving model to identify and choose nonviolent strategies for dealing with conflict. RiPP emphasizes behavioral repetition and mental rehearsal of the social-cognitive problem-solving model, experiential learning techniques, and didactic learning modalities. RiPP sessions are taught in the classroom by a school-based prevention specialist and are typically incorporated into existing social studies, health, or science classes. The intervention is offered in three grade-specific modules: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • RiPP-6 (6th grade): 16 sessions over the school year, focusing broadly on violence prevention • RiPP-7 (7th grade): 16 sessions at the beginning of the school year, focusing on using conflict resolution skills in friendships • RiPP-8 (8th grade): 16 sessions at the end of the school year, focusing on making a successful transition to high school
Safe Dates	March 07
Abstract: Safe Dates is a program designed to stop or prevent the initiation of emotional, physical, and sexual abuse on dates or between individuals involved in a dating relationship. Intended for male and female 8th- and 9th-grade students, the goals of the program include: (1) changing adolescent dating violence and gender-role norms, (2) improving peer help-giving and dating conflict-resolution skills, (3) promoting victim and perpetrator beliefs in the need for help and seeking help through the community resources that provide it, and (4) decreasing dating abuse victimization and perpetration. Safe Dates consists of five components: a nine-session curriculum, a play script, a poster contest, parent materials, and a teacher training outline. In some studies, the program incorporated a booster session.
SMARTteam	March 07
Abstract: SMARTteam (Students Managing Anger and Resolution Together) is a multimedia, computer-based violence prevention intervention designed for 6th through 9th graders (11-15 years of age). The program is based on social learning theory as well as a skill acquisition model that approaches learning as a five-stage process ranging from novice to expert, with learners at each stage having different needs. The software's eight modules use games, graphics, simulations, cartoons, and interactive interviews to teach conflict resolution skills in three categories: anger management, dispute resolution, and perspective-taking. Anger management focuses on anger-control training; dispute resolution assists students in learning and using negotiation and compromise skills to resolve disputes; perspective-taking allows students to understand that others may have views and feelings different from their own. The various modules can be used separately or together in a sequential manner. Once installed on computers, SMARTteam is easy to use, requiring only rudimentary computer skills on the part of the students.

Success in Stages: Build Respect, Stop Bullying	March 07
Abstract: Success in Stages: Build Respect, Stop Bullying is an interactive computer program designed to help students increase respect and decrease bullying behaviors. The program uses an individualized expert feedback system based on the Transtheoretical Model of Change to help students change behaviors associated with bullying. Students participate in three 30-minute sessions in school. Tailored feedback is provided to help each student recognize and change his or her own bullying-related behavior and to promote acting with respect at all times. Offered in three modules (elementary, middle, and high school), the program features guides for administrators, school staff, and families and automated reporting for schools.
Too Good for Violence	August 08
Abstract: Too Good for Violence (TGFV) is a school-based violence prevention and character education program for students in kindergarten through 12th grade. It is designed to enhance prosocial behaviors and skills and improve protective factors related to conflict and violence. TGFV has a developmentally appropriate curriculum for each grade level through 8th grade, with a separate high school curriculum for students in grades 9 through 12. The K-5 curricula each include seven weekly, 30- to 60-minute lessons, and the curricula for grades 6-8 each include nine weekly, 30- to 45-minute lessons. The high school curriculum includes 14 weekly, 1-hour lessons, plus 12 1-hour "infusion" lessons designed to incorporate and reinforce skills taught in the core curriculum through academic infusion in various subject areas. Trained teachers, counselors, and prevention specialists deliver the program. The research presented in this review involved only students in the 3rd grade. Too Good for Violence is a companion program to Too Good for Drugs (TGFD). At the high school level, the programs are combined in one volume under the name Too Good for Drugs & Violence High School. Outcomes for TGFD and the combined high school version have been reviewed by NREPP in another summary.

I hear it from my students
I hear it every day,
they tell me all about it,
it will never go away.

They tell me how they heard it almost right outside their door,
and they tell me who died
many years before.

I want to keep them safe -

I can from 8 to 2,

but after that, I feel hopeless -

what really can I do?

They live such different lives from me,

I am really so unaware,

of what day to day life is like

all they can do is share.

Gunshots and bullets - I can't imagine when will it end?

The fear they face daily,

I will never understand.
